A Howl at Dusk

The howl pierced the darkening sky and made Innis Munro stop dead in his tracks. He pulled his hood down, listened intently. The only sound was his beating heart.

That was a wolf, he thought.

But it couldn't have been. There were no wolves on the island of Nin, no wolves in Scotland any more, not for almost three hundred years. It was just a trick of the wind.

He pressed on but kept his hood down. The afternoon light of early March was fading fast, snow was falling, and he was still a good half-mile from home.

Innis walked faster, told himself it was not the howl that made him hurry but the gloomy sky and gathering snow. He was crossing 'the Barrens' – the middle of the island where the land was bumpy and boggy.

To a stranger, a mainlander, it would have seemed he was lost in the middle of bleak nowhere, but Innis knew this ground, knew every rise and dip.

Another howl came; long, bloodcurdling, wolf-like.

Innis stopped again, caught his breath and held it. He turned full circle, scanning the landscape, peering through the snow and the gloom. Closer this time.

It was someone playing a trick, trying to frighten him. It was pretty ridiculous, actually. There were no wolves on Nin.

Innis cupped a hand to his mouth and returned the best horror-movie wolf howl he could muster. There was an immediate response but from further away this time, in the distance up by the mountain. And then another howl, much closer, a sound that no boy could make.

Innis whirled around and stared across the moor. Twenty paces from where he stood was a shape, dark against the brightness of swirling snow. The silhouette of an animal. It stood side-on to him, front and back legs splayed, back arched, bushy tail curved down. Innis watched the creature raise its head slowly to the sky and another howl shattered the silence.

It was the unmistakable silhouette of a wolf.

Innis turned and ran, leaping across the marshy ground, rasping air in and out. He slid down shallow slopes and sank into boggy puddles, rammed hands into the mud to haul himself out, moved forwards at speed, too frightened to look back in case the wolf was upon him and his legs gave out. He took a glance behind as he ran, saw nothing and stumbled and fell, landing face first in the marsh.

Innis sat up, felt water ooze beneath his trousers and melting snow run down his back. He gave a shiver and looked around. No wolves – but a boy was walking towards him, the snow lying thick enough now to hear the crunch of his steps.

Innis struggled to his feet. He didn't recognise the boy.

He was smaller than Innis but seemed older. In appearance, the boys were the exact opposite. The stranger was squat, with short, fair hair, shaved almost to the scalp. He had dark, unfriendly eyes. Innis didn't know him.

The boy turned and took a step away, and Innis asked, 'Where are you going?'

'What's it to you?' the boy asked, without turning or stopping.

'There's a wolf out there,' Innis said.

The boy stopped and headed back toward Innis. 'Where exactly?'

Innis pointed. 'Out there somewhere.'

'You saw it?' probed the boy.

'I heard it and I saw it.'

The boy didn't answer, but asked instead, 'How far?'

'Not far, five minutes from here.'

The boy sighed and wiped snow from his face. He turned and strode off without another word.

Writing

- Teacher assessed over a variety of their most recent pieces of writing around the May/June time.
- After this, the writing is moderated in one of two ways:
  - 1) Formally by the Local Authority who send in an external moderator who will agree/disagree with the teacher assessment.
  - 2) Informally with teachers from other schools at a local moderation meeting.

Writing Expectations

This is a checklist based on end of KS2 expectations for reaching the expected standard.

Typically, they want to see each feature at least 3 times. It is also worth noting that children cannot be at the expected standard if they do not join their handwriting.

Capital letters, full stops and apostrophes for omission are just a given at this stage so are not mentioned on here but they must be consistently used correctly.

WORKING AT THE EXPECTED STANDARD
I can write for a range of purposes, making sure that the language I am choosing shows an understanding of the person reading it. e.g. writing informally and in the first person in a diary
I can describe settings, characters and atmosphere. You could use a range of descriptive techniques e.g. expanded noun phrases, similes/metaphors, personification and onomatopoeia.
I can include dialogue to convey character and advance the action. e.g. include emotions, actions and characters' thoughts in your dialogue. With a psychotic smirk, the witch whispered: "I have a gift for her, too." She edged towards the crib. The crowd gasped in fear.
I can use the appropriate vocabulary and grammatical structures for my writing. e.g. writing informally and in the first person in a diary, using contracted forms in dialogue etc.
I can build cohesion within and across paragraphs using the following:	Co-ordinating conjunctions. e.g. for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so
	Subordinating conjunctions. e.g. although, after, as, when, if, that, even though, because, until, unless, since
	Adverbials. e.g. include when and where the verb happened.  As the clock struck midnight, the shadow moved across the graveyard.
	Pronouns to avoid repetition. e.g. Jon kicked the ball. Jon scored. Jon kicked the ball and he scored.
I can use tenses correctly and consistently.

I can use a range of punctuation mostly correctly:	Inverted commas.
	Apostrophes for possession.
	Commas for fronted adverbials.
	Commas for clauses.
	Commas in a list.
	Brackets, dashes and commas (parenthesis).
	Commas for clarity.
	Hyphens.
	Semi-colons.
	Colons.
I can spell most words from the Year 5/6 spelling list: accommodate, accompany, according, achieve, aggressive, amateur, ancient, apparent, appreciate, attached, available, average, awkward, bargain, bruise, category, cemetery, committee, communicate, community, competition, conscience, conscious, controversy, convenience, correspond, criticise, curiosity, definite, desperate, determined, develop, dictionary, disastrous, embarrass, environment, equip (-ped, -ment), especially, exaggerate, excellent, existence, explanation, familiar, foreign, forty, frequently, government, guarantee, harass, hindrance, identity, immediate(ly), individual, interfere, interrupt, language, leisure, lightning, marvellous, mischievous, muscle, necessary, neighbour, nuisance, occupy, occur, opportunity, parliament, persuade, physical, prejudice, privilege, profession, programme, pronunciation, queue, recognise, recommend, relevant, restaurant, rhyme, rhythm, sacrifice, secretary, shoulder, signature, sincere(ly), soldier, stomach, sufficient, suggest, symbol, system, temperature, thorough, twelfth, variety, vegetable, vehicle, yacht
I can use a dictionary to check the spelling of uncommon or more ambitious words.
I can write neatly and legibly with joined letters.
